

MADISON BUSINESS ASSOCIATION members meet Thursday evening with city officials in the Firemen's Hall to discuss reducing robberies and obtaining increased police protection. Some MBA members said they are arming themselves during store hours. New anti-crime devices for stores were discussed. Several city aldermen and officials were present for the two-hour meeting, called as a result of the murder of James Perdue Sr., a businessman, and the wounding of James "Sonny" Crangle, an employee of Perdue Furniture, during an armed robbery Jan. 19. (Press-Record Photo by Mick Strange)

Madison police will be expanded

By MICK STRANGE

Mayor Mike Sasyk of Madison said Thursday night another police officer will be hired within the next four to six weeks, and several proposed new anti-crime devices will be presented to the merchants and City Council, in an effort to further reduce crime within the city.

A meeting was held in the Madison Firemen's Hall at 7 o'clock Thursday, attended by approximately 50 merchants and city officials.

The gathering was called by Wayne Scannell, of Wayne's Mens Wear, president of the Madison Business Association (MBA), to discuss police protection improvements in the wake of the Jan. 19 murder of a store owner.

Mayor Sasyk began the meeting, saying, "What we would like to show you first are the crime figures in the City of Madison, broken down in 10 robbery type categories. You all can have a copy."

"We compiled these figures to show you Madison has a lower crime rate than any community in Madison and St. Clair counties. I am talking about cities, not the rural areas."

The statistical report gave the number of armed robberies of Madison businesses with guns, with the year listed first, followed by number of crimes: 1972-5, 1973-8, 1974-7, 1975-4, 1976-7, 1977-3, 1978-3 and three during the first 17 days in January.

The report, prepared by Chief of Police Donald L. Bridick, indicated there were eight armed robberies of Venice and St. Louis police are cooperating in an attempt to solve the murder of Jacqueline Shipley, 19, of the 4300 block of Lee Avenue, St. Louis, whose body was found 100 yards east of the western end of the superstructure on Venice's McKinley Bridge at 3:10 a.m. Saturday.

Woman slain

According to William Sternberg, deputy coroner of Madison County, she had been shot in the face at least twice and perhaps three times.

The body was found in the outer westbound lane by a bridge toll taker who was told about it by a motorist.

A motive and other details have not been established yet, authorities said. The auto she is believed to have been driving was found abandoned on eastbound Interstate 70 near Salisbury Street in St. Louis.

The car was towed to the Venice city garage and Alva Busch, a crime scene technician for the state of Illinois, was called in to check the vehicle.

A 38-caliber revolver and a large amount of blood were found inside the auto.

St. Louis police a short time later picked up a 19-year-old St. Louisian who had been shot in the leg at a St. Louis residence about six blocks from the Missouri approach to McKinley Bridge.

Police believe there may be a connection, but he has refused to make any statements.

Mayor Sasyk then said, "I would like to refer to the (Press-Record) newspaper article and statements made by Wayne."

Gun course for store operators

Granite City Chief of Police Ronald J. Veizer announced during Friday's crime prevention committee meeting of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce that his department intends to offer a course in the near future on handgun safety for store owners who are arming themselves to protect against robbers.

"We do not like to see the store owners with guns in every store, but if they are going to have the guns anyway, we might as well teach them how to use them safely," Veizer said.

Materials ordered from the National Rifle Association (NRA) will be the basis for the classroom instruction.

Also planned is at least one session on the police department's new pistol range for store owners to fire and become familiar with their guns.

A committee member opposed encouraging store owners to arm themselves, increasing the risk of accidents and misjudgments, but

"Of 16 policemen, four of these were desk personnel and 12 were utilized in the field. We did not do away with police on the streets, but on the desk."

"We have saved $50,000 a year doing

Major movie planned here

By MICK STRANGE
Press-Record Staff Writer
Warner Brothers Television (WB-TV) is planning to make a major "disaster" film, "The Night the Bridge Fell Down," if the Madison City Council gives its approval at a meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 6.

William L. Young, unit manager for WB-TV, and members of his staff were at the Madison-owned two-lane Chain of Rocks Bridge on Jan. 9 to study the area. The formerly busy bridge, now closed, was one of three in the country the group was inspecting.

Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk received a call Thursday, Jan. 25, from Hollywood about the bridge film, using the local bridge.

He asked the callers to make the offer in writing and said he will present it to the City Council.

Mayor Sasyk said the city might be able to earn some revenue from the film and added that the television company would have to provide adequate insurance.

Sasyk said the plot of the film sounds like an action-packed, absorbing story. The producer is Irwin Allen, who has made several major disaster films.

The film involves seven cars that become isolated in the middle of the

Ervey potentate

When R. H. "Dick" Ervey met Evelyn Jo Yelton at Fort Leonard Wood (Mo.) during World War II, little did he realize that he would move to Granite City and someday be the illustrious potentate of Ainal Temple. He was elected to that post Thursday night.

Born in Erin, N. Y., he attended school there and the Breeseport, N. Y., high school. The potentate soon became a part of Uncle Sam's Army: it was 1942, and he was on this way to non-commissioned officer school in Galveston, Tex.

The new "Illustrious Sir" served as a platoon sergeant with the 8th Infantry Division in many areas, and today has an Army-connected disability that cost him 11 months in the hospital.

He was sent back to Ft. Leonard Wood for discharge and, while there, met his future wife, who was working at the base. They married in 1946 and lived at Newburg, Mo., for a short time.

They visited her family in Granite City from time to time, and finally decided to come here to live. Potentate Ervey became a part of the meat industry through cutting and sales, and this is what led him into the restaurant business he now follows.

Kerry, Richard and Connie also became a part of the Ervey family. Kerry still lives in Granite City, and is a diligent worker at Ainal.

Richard Jr. lives in New York state, where he attends Masonic meetings, while daughter Connie Onesky lives in Glen Carbon with her husband, Frank. The Ervey home at 3700 Johnson Road is not as noisy as it used to be, but it will be on installation night when they all gather.

Besides the restaurant the new Shrine potentate operates, he is also in the construction business, which is

Ervay, Dempsey named

Granite City businessman R. H. "Dick" Ervay was elected potentate of Ainaid Temple, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at the annual meeting Thursday night at the Mosque, 609 St. Louis Ave., East St. Louis.

Ervay succeeds another Granite Cityan, C. A. "Jack" Dempsey, who will serve as treasurer for the Temple during 1979. J. William Harrington, a past potentate of Ainaid, has served as treasurer for the past 27 years but resigned, saying it is time for some one else to take over.

The new potentate has a restaurant as well as a construction company in Granite City, where he has resided since service in World War II.

One of five Shrine temples in Illinois, Ainaid has 8,400 nobles and serves all of Southern Illinois, using old Route 40 as part of the northern boundary. The area extends across the state to the Indiana border.

Ainaid received its charter in 1913, and at present 25 of the 67 past potentates are still living.

The Shrine philanthropy, Shriner's Hospitals for Crippled Children, is a major project of Ainaid, and in 1978 it sent 283 applications for treatment of orthopedic care for children in the Ainaid area. At present, Ainaid also is taking care of 46 children for treatment and clinic visits at the Cincinnati Burns Institute.

With a $48 billion budget for the 21 hospitals for 1979, Ainaid does a spirited job of raising funds in Southern Illinois. Past Potentate Dempsey gave more than $95,000 in "bonds for braces" to the St. Louis hospital unit last week, as part of what Ainaid clubs and units raised during the past year.

Installation of the new officers will be at Ainaid Temple on Feb. 10. The members and their ladies will be honored with a dinner and stage show, starting at 6:30 p.m.

Presidents of the Shrine clubs and units of Ainaid, 75 in all, also will be in attendance with their ladies so they can take the oath of office in the presence of the Ainaid nobles.

Others elected for the coming year were: Ray Tibbs, chief, rabban, Mt. Vernon; Donald G. Adams, assistant rabban, Granite City; Mark W. Moreton, high priest and prophet, Freeburg; Bill D. Parker, Oriental guide, Fairfield; C. A. "Jack" Dempsey, past potentate, treasurer, Granite City; Ralph E. Green, p.p., recorder, Belleville; Gene T. Morris, first ceremonial master, Edwardsville; Raymond R. DuQuinn; Joseph W. Barnes Jr., second ceremonial master, Highland; Thomas J. Barschak, director, Edwardsville; Raymond R. "Randy" Burton, marshal, Granite City; Irvin C. Slate Jr., captain of the guard, Granite City; and Orville E. Hommert, outer guard, Granite City.

The new outer guard will move up the line as the years pass. He, like those before him, will someday be potentate of the temple.

ORVILLE E. HOMMERT
Outer Guard

JACK DEMPSEY
Ainaid Treasurer

Orville E. Hommert has been chosen by Potentate R. H. "Dick" Ervay to fill the office of outer guard on the Ainaid Shrine Temple's Divan.

A resident of Granite City all his life, and a master Mason since 1966, he has been an employee of the U.S. Postal Service for the past 34 years.

A Granite City City High School graduate who attended the University of Illinois, Hommert lives with his wife, Catherine (nee Colligan), at 2732 Michigan Ave.

They have one son, John, a railroad employee. While his son was growing, Hommert spent considerable time assisting in Cub Scout work, plus being an ardent member of the Granite City Booster Club.

Hommert served with the Air Force in World War II, and spent most of it in a heavy bomber in the 15th Air Force. As a member of the 484th Bomb Group, 827th Bomb Squadron, he earned the Air Medal with six oak leaf clusters on 35 missions over Southern Europe.

The Granite Cityan went to the university on his return home, and then met his wife and they were married in 1947.

Learning the value of Masonry, the new outer guard became an entered apprentice at Granite City Lodge AF and AM 877. After becoming a master Mason in 1966, he continued on through the Scottish Rite, Valley of Southern Illinois, and then through the Shrine, being a part of the fall ceremonial that year.

Hommert became a member of the Oriental Band of Ainaid when it was formed and served as its president in 1971, plus being a member of the Association of Oriental Bands on a national basis. As a member of the uniformed bodies of Ainaid, he advanced to president of that group in 1976.

After he crossed the "hot sands" of Ainaid, he joined the Tri-City Shrine Club. He was "Shrine of the year" in 1969, and was elected the fourth year to head the Granite City group.

Besides being a member of the Royal Order of Jesters, Court 86, Orville Hommert finds time to do some hunting and fishing, and he likes to travel. He has become proficient with a camera and spends much time taking photos as a hobby.

New Schnucks center opens in Collinsville

The new Schnucks Super Center at Lake Side Plaza in Collinsville opened today at noon. Mayor Lewis Krause of Collinsville cut a ribbon to officially open the combination supermarket-drug store.

Craig D. Schnuck, executive vice-president of Schnuck Markets, pointed out that the Schnucks Super Center emphasizes commitment to consumer service.

"Our Super Center will offer the Schnucks consumer services, such as Tela Price unit pricing, standardized ground beef labeling and Nutri Guide, a program on nutrition information which we introduced to this area."

"The Collinsville store is fully equipped to serve the handicapped with entrances, doorways, checklines, restrooms and restaurant facilities suitable for wheelchair access."

The Collinsville Super Center is the third Schnucks Super Center in the greater St. Louis metropolitan area. The 59,000-square-foot Schnucks Super Center features more than 20 individual departments with one common checkout.

The checkout area is equipped with 12 checklines and four express lanes, featuring electronic scanning checkout that enables each customer to receive an itemized receipt tape of purchases.

Madison police

"We did not give less protection. We only have ten police now, so we are waiting for the police board to fill one vacancy."

"We are also awaiting word from the courts on the decision over one of the policemen who has been indicted."

"We are more concerned about the safety of the city than you are. We are working at it. I get out on the streets myself and patrol. We are concerned," the mayor emphasized.

"The fact is that a police car drove by Jim's (Parade Furniture) just a few minutes prior to the shooting, and this did not stop them."

"We live in a compact area and a police car can be anywhere in the city, with the exception of West Madison, in one minute and 30 seconds," Sasyk said.

"What we need to do is ban together and come up with ideas to fight crime. We want input and new ideas."

"I have to tell you right now that one of the problems is caused by complacency of business people, who are responsible, through carelessness, for setting off 500 false alarms a year."

"Answering 500 false alarms a year, a policeman can get complacent, also."

"We have some outstanding policemen, but you make them competent. One merchant said, about setting off a false alarm that he should want to see how long it took the police to get there."

"If you see someone suspicious, call us (police). Don't worry about bothering us; we're here and we want to be called."

"One reminder about the burglar alarms is that the merchants should test them internally when they leave, to make sure the alarm is working."

"We have been studying some new ideas to further protect the merchants. One is a special device in every cash register which would automatically set off an alarm in the police station and a light on the roof which would alert the neighbors that something is wrong."

"We have a few other alarms today in use, and we hope to increase these, Mayor Sasyk said."

"The first month of 1979 has been bad, in only one area, and I want to again say we are safer here in Madison than anywhere else. You can't hang us because we've got one bad month."

"I would like for you to compare what we have and what other cities have regarding police. Even with 10 policemen, we are above 75 percent of Downstate cities for police protection."

"Everyone would like a lot of policemen, but we just don't have the money. Real estate taxes on business places are only $20,921 a year at 100 percent collection, and there is about a five percent loss in collection," Mayor Sasyk said.

Al Hudzik, city comptroller, said, "I would just like to mention that this is the maximum in taxes without a referendum."

Jack Lee, of the First National Bank in Madison, asked the mayor, "What will be the increase in cost of these new preventive gadgets?"

"About $2 a month," Sasyk said.

Scannell commented, "We have a lot of merchants who are scared, and many have indicated to me as MBA president that the people are willing to pay more taxes for more police."

Sasyk said, "If we had 25 more policemen, we're not going to have a lower crime rate. A policeman is not always the answer."

One merchant asked about progress in the Perdue killing.

Chief Bridick said, "We have some suspects, but I really can't go into much detail."

"We believe the killing might be tied into others in neighboring communities. We're all working strongly on this."

Mayor Sasyk then said, "Near closing time, I think the merchants should be very careful and alert. You need to watch for cars with Missouri license plates, and don't be afraid to call the police."

"If you see a suspicious or out-of-state car, get the license number so the police can check."

Lee said, "There are a lot of people fearful and this is of great concern to me personally. I don't want to see the city marked with a bad name."

Sasyk replied, "Newspapers blow shootings and things way out of proportion. You don't want to frighten people, which you are doing by having meetings like this."

"One thing we are looking into, too, are cameras to take pictures of people entering the stores. These cost about $250."

"There are other preventive measures we're investigating. We want to keep these nuts from coming to our town. It seems everyone wants to kill you today," Sasyk said.

State Representative Sam Wolf said, "I am here tonight as an observer, but I want to assure everyone that any assistance I can give at the state level, I will."

Mayor Sasyk then repeated his belief that patrolling heavily in an area does not prevent crime.

Ronald Grzywacz asked, "What changed your mind, Mike? When I was on the police force, we rode two-man cars and you stopped that. We then rode single cars, at that time, you said that more patrol would reduce crime."

Sasyk replied, "When you have two men in a car, they talk too much to each other."

During the evening, the police department for the most part was highly praised for the work it is doing, although there was some criticism that a few police allegedly spend too much time in the police station and not patrolling.

The courts were criticized for turning criminals loose on probation, rather than locking up persons who commit such crimes as burglary and robbery.

It was also noted at the meeting that several Madison merchants have purchased weapons to carry on their person and to keep in their stores.

One store operator said he bought a pistol "because if some robber is going to try and kill me, I can at least try to duck and get a shot at him."

Gun course

Christ Passhof, committee member and supervisor of Venice Township, said he feels publicity that many store owners in this area are armed and have been trained in the use of handguns may discourage armed robberies in the Quad-City area.

Veizer stressed he feels store owners should limit their weapons to acceptable handguns, because shotguns in confined areas are "far too dangerous."

He said the police will be glad to make recommendations to store owners who would like to know what size of gun to purchase.

Details on the training course for store owners and employees will be announced after the NRA materials arrive and he studied to determine how much class time and how much gun range time will be required.

He said the course will stress safety situations in which store owners should display their guns, and the legal dangers store owners accept in having and using a gun in a store.

Funding lack blocks Pontoon center plan

The current $136,895 project to resurface streets in the older section of Pontoon Beach has caused the village to temporarily "put on ice" plans for constructing a community center in the village, according to Village Board President Floyd David Moss.

Moss said the village had hoped to fund both the street resurfacing program and a $436,893 community center with grant funds from the Madison County Community Development office, but watched the building construction program "slip development funds dwindled."

"If I had known there were less funds available, that originally indicated, I still would not have done anything different. Our top priority was the resurfacing of the streets in the older sections of the village and that is where we would have put money, anyway," Moss said.

However, he indicated, "We would not have announced plans for construction of a community center if we had been kept informed on the status of the community development funds."

He contended the village was not even invited to three community development meetings where village officials could have discovered their funding plans were unrealistic.

"I found out that Mary Kane (director of the county's Community Development office) does not even have the address of the village hall," Moss stated.

Mrs. Kane said she had told village officials that their plans to construct a community center were good plans, in that they met guidelines, but they were not promised funding.

She said that most districts in the county assign available grant funds according to priorities and the community center may have had a high priority.

If the District Two (Quad-City area) directors had decided to assign funds in that manner.

However, the district later decided to assign funds to cities and villages on a "per capita" basis, determined by population, and the village's estimated appropriation for a community center was trimmed to $226,130.

Since that time, with the start of the street resurfacing program, the village has found out that it has used or committed most of its grant funds through the 1980-81 fiscal year and can expect to receive only about $37,000 in the 1981-82 fiscal year.

"With all of the work we did with Mary Kane, it amazes me that all of a sudden we would have just $37,000 available in the next three years. It is just unfortunate that the best information we had available led me to believe we could fund that project (the community center)," Moss said.

He said the village has been assured by Mrs. Kane that it will be given a high consideration for a portion of an estimated $200,000 in discretionary funds in each of the next two fiscal years.

Those funds, which are uncommitted by the county to any given project, will be used for projects with the highest priority, as determined by the county Community Development office, Mrs. Kane explained.

Moss concluded, "We will just have to put the community center project on ice, which would be appropriate with the weather today, and hope that discretionary funds will be released to us in the next two years so the project can become a reality."

He noted a site has been selected on the east side of Highway 111 in the village for the future construction.

Post-holiday gifts push drive over top

Although the Salvation Army's Tree of Lights appeal to help needy families formally concluded three weeks ago without reaching the $25,000 goal, the generosity of Quad-City residents has enabled the target figure to be surpassed, Bruce Mort, 1978 drive chairman, announced today.

Captain Elmer Trapp, local Salvation Army commander, said "anyone needing help also will be aided during 1979 through the generous gifts."

"With the additional funds received this month, the annual Christmas appeal has enabled the Salvation Army to touch some 2,700 lives," the officer said.

Mr. Henderson was born in Hannibal, Mo., and resided in Granite City several years prior to moving to Missouri three years ago.

He worked as an air conditioning and refrigeration man at the Granite City Army Installation before transferring in 1971 to Tooele, Utah, where he retired five years ago.

Mr. Henderson was a World War II disabled veteran.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Mildred (Schafner) Henderson; two daughters, Miss Rose Ann Henderson of Hannibal, Mo., and Mrs. Russ (Paula) Brown, Jonesboro, Ark.; six stepsons, Garrie Kutz, Houston, Tex.; John Kutz, Troy, Ill.; James Kutz, Union, Mo.; Richard Kutz, Granite City, Mo.; Dwight Kutz, Venice, Calif.; Stuart Kutz of San Diego, Calif.; his mother, Mrs. Myrtle Henderson of Hannibal; a sister, Mrs. R. G. (Ruth) Wendling of St. Louis; 10 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

GRANITE CITY TRUST AND SAVINGS BANK

A bank should be large enough to be strong but small enough to offer personal service. Ours is that kind of bank. We do things most banks in the large cities won't and things smaller financial institutions can't. That's our style... aggressive, but warmly personal.

When you chose a bank, it's good to know it's financially strong and growing. One you can count on for the service you need. We've been around a long time and we're strong enough to have found sound financial footing, and we just keep getting stronger with age.

And we intend to keep branching out year after year, with more customers and more capital. So when you're considering banking services, don't get out of a club in the financial forest.

If you need help or advice on any banking service, whether it's a checking account, a savings account, a personal or business loan, or any other service, see one of our officers. When they advise you... you can BANK on it!

Ervay

known as the Richwell Company in Granite City.

He has served as a board member of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce and chairman of its Highway, Traffic and Transportation Committee, as well as being active in other committees.

He is now serving on the Citizens Advisory Committee for Off-Campus Education of School District Nine, and once served as chairman of this committee.

He is on the board of directors of State Savings and Loan Association of Granite City.

Potente Ervay plays a little golf when he has a chance, but spends most of his spare time at a cottage at Ka-Ho Lake near Mt. Olive, where he can relax and catch a bass or two.

The Ervays are members of Grace Baptist Church in Granite City.

Fast Potente Harold R. Mammie observed as Ervay worked with Aina Temple, having become a Shrine Noble in 1963.

Manette felt he could be a part of the leadership of Aina, and appointed him in 1968 as outer guard.

Ervay spent that first year visiting the many Shrine clubs of Aina to increase his knowledge of the nobles who make the clubs and units among the most active anywhere. Ever since, he has been well known in all the Aina clubs.

Since his entrance to Aina in 1963, he has served as president of the Tri-City Shrine Club (1966), president of the Provost Guard (1967) and chief of the International Association of Provost Guards (1967).

He was installed in the latter post at Washington, D.C.

The Potente is a past member of the Directors Staff, Royal Order of Jesters Court 86, Gabriel White Shrine of Granite City, and Valley of Southern Illinois Scottish Rite, where he served as senior warden in the John M. Pearson Chapter of Rose Croix.

He has been a member of Knight Templar Commandry 81, and his mother lodge is Granite City Masonic Lodge 877, where he was elevated to master Mason in 1962.

On Nov. 19, 1978, he received his honorary Legion of Honor award from DeMolay. He did not have the chance to be a DeMolay in his youth, but has given of himself in this area, an Aina spokesman commented.

"Click," as he is widely known, has served on nearly every committee in Aina.

"His overall circus help has been one of the reasons why the Granite City show has become a big success," an associate says. "Last year, when he was Temple circuit chairman, we again reached a new high with his direction. It would be hard to find something that has been accomplished at Aina in the past 12 years that he has not been a part of. His business and professional experience assure good leadership, and continued growth for Aina."

bridge, as the bridge starts to fall apart, steel girder by steel girder.

The mayor said the movie makers will use exact-scale models of the bridge, in addition to filming on the bridge itself, and the bridge will only collapse in the movie, not in reality.

If everything goes according to the script, the people will be rescued by breeches-bouys (chairs on cables).

Arthur Weiss, creator of "Flipper," "Sea Hunt" and "Nanu" television series, wrote the script for the new disaster movie.

Work on the bridge, followed by the filming, is scheduled for some time in April, with NBC-TV featuring the movie later this year.

Smith will build in Milan, Tenn.

Milwaukee — A. O. Smith Corporation will build a 416,000-square-foot plant in Milan, Tenn., for production of structural assemblies for the automotive industry, it was announced Thursday.

Probability of the action was disclosed earlier.

David H. Stieber, vice-president of A. O. Smith and general manager of the Automotive Division, said the initial product will be rear suspension assemblies for a new car Chrysler plans to introduce in the future.

Construction of the plant, on an 82-acre site acquired in October, will begin in mid-March and will be completed by the end of 1979.

Construction startup hinged on determination of the product to be produced and contract negotiations with potential customers.

Production of rear suspension assemblies will begin in early 1980, with volume shipments to be under way by mid-1980. The Milan plant is designed to accommodate production equipment for this as well as for additional products in the future.

About 200 people will be employed initially; eventually, employment could reach 750.

The Automotive Division, with sales of $481 million in 1978, is the largest single operating unit of the corporation.

With plants in Milwaukee and Granite City, it is the nation's largest manufacturer of automobile and truck frames and is a supplier of chassis components including structural and wheel suspension stampings and assemblies, railroad brake beams and grating products.

Often in the past several years, production capacity of these products has been strained at both Milwaukee and Granite City, Stieber said. The new plant site was selected to "help the division meet expanding needs of the automotive industry."

What? Me worry about ice?

I don't know what all the fuss is about. Whenever the streets and sidewalks become a little glazed, everybody panics. Not me. I have a solution.

It is really quite simple. Getting to work when Mother Nature kicks up her heels is easy; you skate.

Whether you are in an automobile or making an attempt at taking a stroll, take your ice skates along. My philosophy has always been, where there's a will, there's a way. If you can't drive, skate to work.

The best idea on the road on a day when the ice is everywhere is to stay away from people, and other drivers in particular.

If I was alone on the road I wouldn't have a thing to worry about. It is all of the crazies who think the letters i-c-e stand for "idiots clobber everyone" that bothers me.

I have never been afraid of winter driving. I just figure it comes with the territory. No amount of complaining on my part is going to do any good, unless I decide to complain about a headache and stay home.

Staying home is worse than pumping up the old courage and going out into nature's worst; at least, it is for me.

department would have to keep the dry spots iced over for us. But at least we wouldn't have to buy salt, and water is cheaper than salt.

You see, there is always a simple way to get around the little problems in life. And ice, after all, can be fun.

Like a good neighbor, State Farm is there.

Church to stress caring, fellowship

The annual meeting of the Nameoki United Presbyterian Church demonstrated that "old-fashioned fellowship" is very much alive, a spokesman said. Immediately following the morning worship service, the Board of Deacons served home-made vegetable soup to go with sandwiches brought by the members.

Pastor Donald Pierson conducted the annual meeting.

The leadership of the congregation is directed by Session Committees. Substantial program and financial progress was noted by the members, and areas that will receive additional attention in the coming year were discussed.

The involvement of larger numbers of lay persons through Session Committees is resulting in a more effective ministry to the community and world as well as within the church family, the church administrator, Nona Corzilius, commented. Fifteen new members were added in 1978.

During the coming year, Ray Hankins will head up the Social Concerns and Community Committee; Jo Ann Watts, the Evangelism and Outreach Committee; Joyce Toussaint, the Christian Education and Youth Committee; Charles Bosworth, Stewardship and Finance; Kenneth Aud, the Missions and Interpretation Committee; Marilyn Price, Pastoral Care and Membership; and Francis Cease, the Worship and Sacraments Committee.

Nona Corzilius was elected as clerk of the Session.

Reports were heard from the United Presbyterian Women, who have led the congregation's successful involvement in the bloodmobile program. One of the members of this group, Marion Pierson, also serves as president of Church Women United.

Becky Corzilius, president of the Youth Fellowship, reported for that group. An adult couples and singles group, the Mariners, announced that a new young adult adult group is being organized, with a steering committee already planning future events for that group.

Mission awareness of the congregation was heightened through missionary speakers, dinners, displays, publicity, movies and a personal interest program, the latter headed by Jo Ann Watts.

Extensive community involvement was noted as well as the sponsorship of bowling, basketball, softball and volleyball teams.

The Board of Deacons — which functions as a "serving, caring group" within the congregation — also noted a full and successful year. David King headed this group in 1978; Mindi Haugey will serve as president in the coming year.

Relationships fostered by the Board of Deacons include a monthly all-church fellowship event. Highlights of these events were cited at the annual meeting.

"The power of a caring congregation" was emphasized by the pastor, who encouraged the members to become "joyful creators of hope and love in the service of the Lord in the coming year."

One of the last great seals

In the last century, most everything was done in an ornate sort of way. Take the county seal of that era, for example.

It certainly doesn't look like the seals in use today. For one thing, the new seals don't have a nose to touch, or a giant turning bar that could quite possibly conk you in the head.

The official seal used by the Madison County Court up until Jan. 1, 1964, had both of those things.

Although no longer in use, the great seal is still at the county courthouse, in the office of Evelyn Bowles, county clerk. It is a most prized relic of the past.

It was almost a victim of World War II when some members of the former County Board of Supervisors suggested that the metal seal be donated to the war effort and melted down, to be formed into bullets. It was saved for future generations by Eulalia Hotz, immediate past county clerk, who refused to part with it. It is said to be one of the few remaining such seals.

IT WAS ONCE THE OFFICIAL SEAL of the county court. Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles, left, turns the unusual seal.

If you look closely, right, you can see where the paint has wore off of the nose, no doubt from thousands of hands touching it.

The date on the seal, below, is 1818.

Women of the West exhibit

"Women of the West," an exhibit from the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, will be shown in the Special Exhibit Gallery in the Museum of Westward Expansion under the Gateway Arch from Friday, Feb. 2, to Sunday, March 15. The display will feature historic photographs of women performing a variety of tasks, including homesteading, acting, mining, and raising families. Dresses, personal items and household tools are also to be displayed. The Museum of Westward Expansion is open to the public from 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. daily.

Special programs will be held in the Old Courthouse in conjunction with the exhibit. A four-week series of Wednesday noontime programs, set for late February and early March, includes:

Feb. 21 — "Women of St. Louis" slide show by Mrs. Anne Kenney, University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Feb. 28 — "Women of the West" slide shown by Sharon Brown, National Park Service.

March 7 — "Anonymous Was a Woman," a film concerning women's folk arts.

March 14 — Songs of Western Women by Jane Grosby-Berry, National Park Service.

In addition to the noontime programs, on Sunday, March 4, a special program on women's folk arts will be presented by Dr. John Olden, professor of English at SIUE. He will display quilts and other folk art creations, representative objects of women's folk arts.

The National Park Service will offer regular tours of the exhibit and, for pre-view study, free slide packages are available for loan to organized groups.

For more information on the exhibit and programs, Quad-Citizens may call the Old Courthouse at (314) 425-4465. For slide packages, the Museum Education Office can be reached at (314) 425-6010.

Seek Optimist historical items

Granite City Optimist Club member Frank Rea is asking anyone who may have historical photos, documents or news articles dealing with the Granite City Optimist Club to loan them to the club for a display at the club's upcoming 50th anniversary celebration.

A date is to be set for a banquet and celebration at the Holiday Inn in Collinsville.

Items of historical interest about the club will be returned after the event, Rea pledged. He said items will be accepted at Skitty's Card and Gift Shop, 1304 Niedringhaus Ave.

Helicopter ambulance service March 1

A helicopter ambulance service staffed and equipped for emergency care and advanced life support will be inaugurated March 1 by the St. Louis University Medical Center, Dr. George E. Thoma, vice president for the center, said Friday.

The area served will include the Quad-Cities.

The specially-equipped helicopter and crews will be based at a new heliport at the St. Louis University hospitals, 1325 South Grand Blvd.

Richard L. Stensrud, director of the hospitals, said the service will be available on a round-the-clock basis to Missouri and Illinois hospitals and physicians, as well as law enforcement and fire officials, ambulance services, construction foremen, industrial safety officers, and other public health and safety agencies within a 100-mile radius of St. Louis.

Named the Medical Air Rescue Corps (MARCR), the service is intended for emergencies requiring advanced medical support and rapid transport of the patient.

MARCR policies, procedures and practices will be reviewed with an advisory council composed of medical, hospital, governmental and emergency services leaders in the region.

"We are gratified by the spirit of cooperation shown by our colleagues in the health care field and by a wide range of government officials during the exploratory and founding stages," Dr. Thomas said.

"We believe we have a truly regional service in terms of availability and coordinated operations, and this is being accomplished voluntarily without federal grants."

Stensrud noted that a similar service was established by St. Joseph Hospital in Kansas City, Mo., last June.

"With the addition of the MARC system," he said, "the state of Missouri will have emergency helicopter services available to approximately two-thirds of its citizens," as well as many Illinoisans.

A Sikorsky model S-55 has been selected as the MARC helicopter.

It will be operated in conjunction with St. Louis Helicopter Airways, Inc., of Maryland Heights, which will furnish the full-time pilots and provide maintenance.

The crafts has capacity for three stretcher patients, two medical specialists and equipment for emergency treatment and advanced life support.

It will have a radio contact with the Missouri HEAR network (Hospital Emergency Administrative Radio), the law enforcement frequency, the Illinois MERCY frequency and the dispatching center at the university hospitals.

The normal mission crew will be a pilot and a registered nurse specially trained in emergency and critical care nursing.

A crew will be available at all times, and the helicopter kept ready for takeoff.

Normally, the craft will be airborne within three minutes after receiving an emergency request. The crew will transport the ill or injured to the destination specified by the requesting official.

Dr. Samuel C. Bonney, director of emergency services at the hospitals, is MARC's medical director.

Director of operations is Kathleen Stephens, R.N., who is emergency medical services coordinator for the hospitals.

Vincent E. Jordan, assistant hospitals director, has been in charge of all MARC planning.

The 100-mile radius of MARC extends roughly north to Hannibal and Springfield, east to Effingham, south to Cape Girardeau and west nearly to Jefferson City and Columbia.

The S-55 will cruise at an air speed of 90 to 110 miles an hour, depending on weather and load.

In addition to Kansas City, similar services are in operation in a number of other areas throughout the nation.

Petition for tax-spend lid

The Taxpayers Survival Association of Illinois, Troy 62294, is still circulating petitions here calling for a state Constitutional amendment limiting state and local taxes and spending.

Spokesman Marvin L. France said, "The petitions are being circulated to demonstrate taxpayers' demand to have a tax and spending limitation amendment."

"They voted overwhelmingly on Nov. 7 for a tax and spending limitation, and the time for political rhetoric to be replaced by positive Executive and Legislative resolution is now. Voters are in no mood for political sleight-of-hand such as that recently demonstrated in our State Capitol."

"The people have spoken on the issue, loudly and clearly, and it is now necessary for the republic form of government to fulfill the will of the people."

TSAA calls itself a grassroots, volunteer, single issue, citizen movement dedicated to passing a constitutional amendment to place a lid on state and local taxation and spending.

Activities included six full-length plays, to studio (one-act) plays and 70 workshops. The three-day festival culminated in a production of "TaleSpinners" by the all-state story cast, high school students from all areas of Illinois.

Disco fever hits Frohardt

DISCO IS FUN, as you can tell by looking at the youngsters in the pictures above and at right. The students are using part of their lunch hour to get a little exercise and to work off a few of the lunchtime calories.

It might be safe to say that disco dancing is more than just a popular pastime. "Disco fever" seems to be spilling over into the school system as well.

The whole thing got started when Susan Smith, physical education teacher at Frohardt School, decided to add a few disco lessons to her class.

After the kids not used to the idea of doing PE class to music, they really came down with a case of disco fever. The gym was turned into a disco palace and the music that came from the school's little phonograph was right out of Saturday Night Fever.

It got so popular that the kids were soon asking for more time to dance. Mrs. Smith and Lee Reid, principal, got together and worked up a little schedule by which the kids can disco in the gym during their lunch period.

These days, lunchtime at Frohardt is a little noisier than at some schools — and, the kids say, a lot more fun.

Inflation main worry in limiting state's biggest cost—public aid

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau
In the Illinois Department of Public Aid they are keeping their fingers crossed.

If inflation can be held to a reasonable rate of increase and if the threatened recession is no worse than most economists expect it to be, Illinois welfare costs should remain relatively stable and any serious financial crisis should be avoided.

Public Aid Director Arthur F. Quern hopes to keep welfare spending at close to the current $2 billion — the largest single sector in the $11 billion state budget — and the total number of welfare recipients below one million.

Gov. James R. Thompson's administration is generally credited with doing a good job in removing ineffectuals from the welfare rolls.

Two years ago, welfare recipients totaled 1,102,159. Latest statistics placed them at 973,239.

But in no other area of state endeavor is the future course more dependent on outside influences.

The cost of providing for Illinois' needs is directly tied to the state of the national economy.

In recent years, soaring inflation, rather than the rate of unemployment, has become the most troublesome factor in the effort to hold down welfare spending.

Quern sizes up 1979.

"For the next calendar year, we see some increase in the caseload based on the economic projections.

"Not too large, but we do see continued inflation and the largest part of the budget is now medical cost."

The rising cost of medical care — one of the major causes of the high U.S. inflation rate — is approaching crisis state in Illinois welfare.

Quern: "There is about $800 million we spend on welfare payments and about $1.1 billion on medical costs. You can see medical is much more than 60 percent.

Although inflation is now the No. 1 welfare problem, administrators are also keeping away eye on the unemployment rate.

Quern: "Right now the most immediate and continuing problem is inflation that just keeps driving medical costs up. We know inflation is going to keep going. It's just a question of how bad it's going to get."

"The unemployment rate has been down, and if that changes, that could be just as severe, depending on how severe the change is. It's a combination. It's hard to say which is worse — inflation or unemployment."

Illinois has been fortunate so far in unemployment, with its jobless rate hanging near 5 percent compared to between 6 and 7 percent nationally most of the year.

Unemployment among heads of households, generally considered the husband and father-breadwinner supporting an average family, has been particularly low.

Any sudden increase in Illinois unemployment is certain to hit hardest at working mothers without husbands, blacks, teenage and marginal workers.

Quern on unemployment: "Where the caseload changes, where the costs go up and down, is with people who are marginally employed or work on a part-time basis."

The economy has more and more women working today. There are more and more opportunities for women in the economic market.

"But those markets depend on a healthy economy. The ADC (Aid to Dependent Children) program, which is the largest part of the welfare caseload, is fundamentally women who are taking care of children."

"There are about 200,000 women and 500,000 children."

"If there are jobs open, there are a number of women who will take those jobs. And if the economy is hiring, that's great. We see the caseload go down."

"When unemployment goes up, those people lose their jobs."

Few agencies in state government undergo such constant and intensive scrutiny as the Public Aid Department.

Legislators, investigative reporters and even federal probes often find welfare a tempting field for criticism.

Quern, however, feels Illinois has been accomplished in improving public aid administration since Thompson took office. "It's always been a problem. We're working with limited resources. We haven't changed the percentage we spend on administration during the last two years. We spend just over 7.5 percent of our budget for administration."

"We recognize that we spend about a third of the state's basic budget. "About half of that comes from the federal government, but that's still a lot of money at a time when people are concerned about their taxes and state costs. We're going to be on the record and show them we're doing a good job."

Quern is counting on increased use of computers, a program launched some months ago, to establish better control on all welfare spending, especially in the medical aid program.

"Probably the most important thing for us now is accuracy on the eligibility process. Accuracy in maintaining a review of eligibility."

"We have made some substantial impact on size of the caseload through the use of computers, etc. We will have a way to go."

Quern looks at the big picture for 1979:

"I've got to be slightly pessimistic. Conditions are going to be worse than they have been in the past year. I hope it is not going to be as severe as some of the most dire predictions. We'll just have to watch it closely. If inflation really gets out of hand, all bets are off."

South jumps over Alton 81-56

By DOUG IRVIN
for the Press-Record

ALTON — If the Granite City basketball team was still in the Southwestern Conference, it would now be 2-3 in the standings after beating the Alton Redbirds 81-56 here Friday night.

"This was by far our best game of the season," said the proud coach of the Warriors, Don Deterding. "I wanted to let my starters finish the game since they started it and did so well."

This game earned the title of "best" by having percentages of 57 percent from the field and 73 percent from the charity line. South made 31 out of 54 shots from the floor and 19 out of 26 from the line.

Jamie Blasigame had another hot game — 20 points in less than three quarters. Blasigame fouled out with 2:30 left in the third period after two back to back controversial charging fouls.

"Our defense did a super job," said Deterding. "My little point guard, Vaughn (Jeff), did a fantastic job on John Smith. Everytime he had the ball, Vaughn would be on him."

Granite jumped to an early 6-2 lead only to have Alton tie it at six and then again at eight and at ten. Then with two charity points from Vaughn, South regained and kept the all-important lead.

South led by eight, 24-16, at the end of the first quarter and then by 12 at locker-room time, 43-30.

The third period ended with South adding one point to their lead, 58-45 and with Blasigame fouling out.

Jeff Trotter put in a two-pointer near the free throw line to open the final period followed by a ten-footer by Jeff Parker. After an Alton time out, Smith scored the Redbird's first points of the quarter with a bucket from underneath, 6-08 remaining.

The Warriors tallied 15 points before Alton scored another basket. It was by Aaron Parker. Alton tried to mount a comeback as they rallied for nine points inside of two minutes.

Vaughn finished the game with a closing seconds layup, 81-56.

"The biggest thing is that these kids are starting to believe in themselves," said Deterding. "They're winners."

"Our defense did a super job," continued Deterding. "Parker is the best defensive kid that I have ever coached. And I'll never go back on that statement."

"Alton is always a challenge — they always play good basketball. I was ready for this — I try to get the kids up for games with teams in the SW Conference," said Coach Deterding.

South now is 12-4 and will face Jerseyville tomorrow night. This game is a make-up contest. The varsity contest will follow the 6:30 jayvee game at about 8 p.m.

NOTES: Alton Coach Stan McAfoos was far from pleased with his team's effort. "Our kids didn't play well at all tonight," he said. "We didn't use anything at all against South."

South managed to keep the lid shut on Alton's scoring ace John Smith. The Warriors' 1-3-1 zone defense held the ace to 14 points, far below his 22 points per game average.

The South zone defense also kept the basketball away from Alton's taller players inside. "Oh, we got the ball to them several times," said McAfoos. "But when they got it, they didn't do what they were supposed to do with it."

"We're not going to beat anybody unless we get the ball inside."

Alton was in the game until the final quarter. They trailed by only 10 points most of the way. The Warriors then exploded for 23 points, outscoring the Redbirds 23-11 in the fourth period.

"I think our game last week at Collinsville had a lot to do with this one," said Deterding. "Even though we lost (buy four at Collinsville), the way we came back against them gave us momentum. The team is starting to have confidence in itself."

Madison gets revenge over Lebanon 103-69

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

MADISON — There are only so many things a basketball team can do to win. It can outscore its opponent, it can outrun them, it can play better defense, it can force the other team into mistakes.

Madison's Trojans did all these things Friday, beating the Lebanon Greyhounds, 103-69. It was Madison's best game of the season, as it combined offense and defensive elements to control the game from start to finish.

"They just completely dominated the game," said Lebanon coach Dennis Korte. "It's just a matter of superiority on this night. It was just an awesome display of shooting, and their press did just exactly what they wanted it to do."

The Trojans probably had no trouble preparing themselves for the game. It was Lebanon which eliminated Madison from the state tournament last year, ending any hope the Trojans might have had about defending their 1977 title.

Madison's fans were also ready for revenge. The sell-out crowd was treated to a frantic paced game. Both teams came out running, and neither slowed down all night.

But the Trojans, after missing some early shots, were able to control the pace, because their press was more than the Greyhounds could handle. Thus, after coming from four points behind early in the game, Madison blew past the Greyhounds. At the end of the first quarter the Trojans led 27-17.

The Trojans were scoring from all over the court, and they controlled the boards, so when they missed, they managed to get the second shot. In the first quarter alone Madison made 13 of 21 field goals, while Lebanon managed only five of 14.

In the second quarter the Trojans went inside more. The change produced fewer outside shots, but it hardly mattered because Lebanon was called for seven fouls. Madison scored 10 points from the free throw line, three coming on technical fouls called against Lebanon's Tom Lawson.

Korte was frustrated by his team's ineffectiveness, but he was nevertheless impressed by Madison's performance. "They were scoring from 15 to 18 feet all night," he said. "I can see why they put up a new net before each game."

Despite being behind 31-34 at the half, Lebanon managed to come back somewhat in the third period, or at least hold its own. The Trojans only outscored the Greyhounds 24-20. But this just emphasized how well Madison was shooting. It took Lebanon 21 shots to score 10 baskets. Madison shot 13 and made 11. "I thought the key to the game was our shot selection," said Larry Graham, Madison coach. "Ken Stanley and James Heard shot really well. We're really capable of shooting that well all the time, but this is the first time we've done it for a whole game."

Ken Stanley led the Trojans, as usual, with 24 points for the game. Heard scored 14, and four other Trojans who scored more than 10 points with 16. Even though both did well on the boards, Stanley scored only three points in the fourth quarter and Heard didn't score at all.

Other Trojans were scoring in the final period, however. Going into the period Madison knew that it had a chance to break the 100-point mark. At the Trojans needed 25 points, ahead 75-54 at the start, and from the looks of the Madison offense it could have been a one-point game.

The Trojans applied the pressure, and with 47 seconds left in the game they needed only three points to reach 100. Madison's Tyrone Echols scored two free throws to give Madison 99, and with 28 seconds left on the clock, it was Echols again, from 30 feet out, giving the Trojans 101.

The spectators were on their feet filling the small gym with an ear-ringing ovation. The noise continued and peaked again, when Trojan Patrick Hatter scored the final basket, making it 103 to 69.

Warriors down four

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City High School South Warrior wrestling team won four dual meets over the weekend to raise their won-lost record to a hefty 19-1. The victims this time around were (in order of demolition) Cahokia (Friday), Columbia Hickam, Quincy Senior and McCluer North (all Saturday).

In Friday's dual action with Cahokia, the Warriors lost only one bout and were never behind. They rocked the Comanches 39-5.

Saturday at home against Quincy, Hickam and McCluer North, South again looked as if it was going to blow all three opponents back home early ... they very nearly did.

In the matchup with Hickam, South's warriors again lost only one bout and humiliated Hickam 52-5. But the match with Quincy was closer. But not much.

The Warriors were all over the Blue Devil grapplers in their matchup and annihilated them by a score of 46-8.

Enough of the close matches, South thought. The Warriors made it a little more comfortable against McCluer North, blowing the Stars back to Missouri 57-6.

The next action for South will be this Thursday at home against arch-rival GCHS North.

Complete individual results are listed in today's Scoreboard.

Salmond leads Venice to final

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor of the Press-Record

SPARTA — Newcomer Ron Salmond scored 23 points and led Venice High School over the hump here Friday night in a 62-49 victory over Sparta in the semifinals of the Sparta Mid-Winter Classic.

"The hump" was the 500 mark, something the Red Devils hadn't been above since 1976. With Salmond, Venice's record is now 8-7 after getting off to an 0-6 start at the beginning of the current campaign.

The Red Devils broke open a close game in the third quarter when they outscored Sparta 17-10. The score at halftime was 27-25, Venice.

"We didn't have much intensity in the first half," said Venice Coach Ken Perkins. "I thought it looked like we were going through the motions out there. We got into a little foul trouble which hampered us a little."

Another thing the foul trouble hampered was Perkins' plan to use the two-platoon system in the game. In the Devils' first-round game Tuesday against Waterloo, Perkins used two separate units at times to help break in newcomers Salmond and Darryl Jones and keep fresh players in the game.

"We sort of had to scrap that idea tonight when we got some guys with foul trouble early in the game," said Perkins. "But I'd like to use it against Red Bud."

Venice will play tonight at 9 o'clock for the championship. The Musketeers upset top-seeded Freeburg in the other semifinal contest.

"Red Bud likes to run with the ball," said Perkins. "If we can keep fresh players out on the floor, it will definitely be to our advantage."

In addition to his 23 points, Salmond ripped down 22 rebounds. The 6'3" jumping jack transferred to Venice at the beginning of the current school year from Lovejoy

SALMOND

High School in Brooklyn where he was a standout forward last season.

"He really worked hard," said Perkins of his new-found player. "He's trying to learn the system and seems to be doing it well."

In that third quarter, Salmond showed his defensive prowess when he tagged Sparta's Steve Gasser the length of the floor. When the Sparta standout went up for a short jump shot, Salmond went up, too. He rejected Gasser's shot somewhere into the third or fourth row of the bleacher seats.

But it was far from a one-man show for Venice. Donald Gardner scored 18 points. "Donald's been the guy the team has looked to most of the season," said Perkins. "He's really the only player who's been consistent all season long. When somebody else might be having an off-night, he's there to make up the difference."

The game wouldn't have been as close as it was in the first half had it not been for a scrappy Sparta squad which continually hounded Venice. Many times the Red Devils would get a rebound only to have the ball taken right out of their hands by Sparta.

"They (Sparta) are a good team, no doubt about it," said Perkins. "That Gasser is a fine player. But in the first half we couldn't hold onto the ball and our guards didn't penetrate at all on offense."

Does the presence of Salmond on the team present any problems? "I'm not sure if you can call it a problem," said Perkins. "I don't want the rest of the team to sit back and say, 'Let Salmond do it.'"

"That kind of attitude could get us in trouble. We were playing very good basketball and beating some tough people before Ron arrived. His addition should simply improve our team."

The other addition, guard Darryl Jones, is looking good in Perkins' eyes. "He's working very hard on the plays," he said. "He's a deadly shooter and will give us even more depth."

Does Red Bud present any special problems for Venice? "They're tall," said Perkins. "When you start a lineup that goes 6'4", 6'5", 6'6" and have a sophomore who's also 6'6", you've got to be considered decent just because of height."

"But they also have good outside shooting. Their press can kill a team if it lets itself become intimidated by it. Our two platoon system should help if we can keep it working."

In Belleville East Tourney

North beats Althoff, 69-60

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

BELLEVILLE — Granite City North managed to salvage to some extent its showing at the Belleville East Invitational Basketball tournament, Saturday, with a 69-60 win over Althoff in the third place consolation match.

In Althoff, the Steelers faced the only team in the tournament with a record worse than their own. Althoff was 1-12 going in and North brought in a 2-11 mark. One of the Steelers' two earlier victories this year came at the hands of the same Althoff Crusaders.

The Steelers did what they have failed to do much of the time this year — they scored points. North had four players in double figures. Dennis Page led the Steelers with 20 points, followed by Russ Chappell and Mike Robinson each with 11, and Greg Luehman with 10.

"We hit the hole today better than we have been all year," said Steele Coach Bill Ohlendorf. "We just outworked them."

North looked like something other than a 2-11 basketball team against Althoff, especially in the first half. The Steelers piled up a 12 point lead at the half.

During the course of the first period, North, led by the scoring of Page, built an 18-11 lead. Then, in the second quarter, North threatened to put the game out of reach. Scoring 12 straight points while holding the Crusaders scoreless, North led 30-13. North may have let up in the second half. The Crusaders came out hot, scoring eight unanswered points to open the third period. "We were ahead by about 16 going into the second half," said Ohlendorf. "We just breezed after that."

Althoff chipped away at the lead until the start of the final period. The Crusaders pulled to within four points, 51-47, early in the quarter, but failed to overcome the deficit when they committed three straight turn-overs followed by three fouls.

North took advantage, scoring on three free throw attempts, and increased their lead to 59-47 with just less than four minutes left in the game.

The Steelers managed to hold on to the lead for the remainder of the game, for their one and only win of the tournament.

Ohlendorf, despite only one win in three starts at Belleville, said he wasn't completely disappointed with his team's showing. "We shot very badly against Belleville West, but they went on to play DeSmet in the final, so that was no disgrace," said Ohlendorf. "We played reasonably well against Mascoutah. We were disappointed because we only lost by one point, but we didn't play that badly. It's just a matter of shooting."

Actually, it was just a matter of scoring two more points than North did in Mascoutah Thursday night 40-39. In a game that saw each team trade the lead several times, the final minute mark of the final period, Mascoutah went ahead in the final seconds on TOM GRECO of GCHS North (right) puts up a shot Friday against Mascoutah's potential all-star Kris Jenner. Greco's two points here weren't quite enough as he and his Steele teammates dropped a 40-39 decision to Mascoutah in the consolation bracket of the Belleville East Tournament. Saturday, however, North defeated Belleville Althoff for consolation third place.

The Steelers led in the game as late as the two-minute mark of the final period. Mascoutah went ahead in the final seconds on a free throw by Kris Jenner, and held on to the lead until the final buzzer.

It was the Steelers' second loss in as many tries in the tournament, and sent them into that third place consolation game with Althoff. Box scores are in today's Scoreboard.

Boyd and Bell spark South over Kahoks

By DOUG IRVIN
for the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Last week, Granite City South lost to the Collinsville cagers by four points; this week, they beat the Kahoks by eight. The difference was that last week's game was the boys' game and last Thursday's was the girls' contest in which South won 62-54. The junior varsity squad from South also beat Collinsville in a very tight 37-36 match.

"They (South) gave it everything they had tonight," said South assistant coach, Jim DeMoulin. That they did, Chris Boyd and Susan Bell both of South scored in the twenties for the Warriors. Boyd had 22 total points which made her the leading scorer and Bell had 21 points.

"Bell and Boyd had excellent games," said Coach

Pat Yates. "I didn't realize Boyd had had many points — she's very competitive."

Collinsville's Kim Brombolich tallied 22 points for her squad followed by Missy Jones with 12. Jones was just recently acquired by the Kahoks coming from New York.

Throughout the first three quarters of the contest, one would think that it was a repeat of the jayvee game. The Kahoks were up by two at the close of the first period and the score was tied at 26 at halftime.

The teams exchanged two sets of three straight buckets tying the score at 32. The Warriors came from there until Bell put one in from the left baseline followed by a charity toss by Laura Gabriel. By the way, the day of the game was also Gabriel's 16th birthday — she celebrated with six points. Bell ended the third period with a crowd pleasing, self-satisfying 25-foot basket at the buzzer.

From that point late in the third quarter, South never gave up the lead. Leading by six going into the final stanza, South pulled a few tricks and was only threatened once.

Early in the fourth period, the Kahoks scored two straight baskets which brought them within two points. But the Warriors' defense held and their offense overcame the threat.

With the clock showing 0:04, Bell drove in with a lay-up to ice the cake with an eight-point deficit when the buzzer sounded, 62-54.

The Warriors are now 2-1 after losing their opener to Mascoutah. They now face Roxana this Thursday at the Shells' gymnasium. "We played man to man defense in the first half to hold Brombolich down, which we did real well in the first half," said Coach Yates. "We switched to a 2-2-1 zone in the second half."

"We didn't sub anybody — all five starters played the entire game," said Yates.

COUGAR Coach Lori Stark let everybody get some game time — and everybody made the most of their time. The five starters, Schaake, Olivia Allen, Jane O'Laughlin, Kathy Going and Cheryl Schoofield all played an excellent defensive game helped with nine. Going and O'Laughlin each had twelve. Several of O'Laughlin's shots were swishers from 20 or more feet. Schoofield, who mostly used time to get the ball down the court and in scoring position brought in four.

The second half showed some strength on the Bearcats side when Berneruter, Bearcats leading scorer, came to life. She scored nine points to the Cougars first short of scoring half the Bulldog points.

Cougar Coach Lori Stark let everybody get some game time — and everybody made the most of their time. The five starters, Schaake, Olivia Allen, Jane O'Laughlin, Kathy Going and Cheryl Schoofield all played an excellent defensive game helped with nine. Going and O'Laughlin each had twelve. Several of O'Laughlin's shots were swishers from 20 or more feet. Schoofield, who mostly used time to get the ball down the court and in scoring position brought in four.

The second half showed some strength on the Bearcats side when Berneruter, Bearcats leading scorer, came to life. She scored nine points to the Cougars first four. But it was almost as if the Cougars had given up. Stark claims that a chance to catch up a little before they took over again.

Pat Alemond, a Highland sophomore who gets better every game, used her speed and ball handling ability to thwart the Bearcats stealing attempts. Kim Wheeler proved her dependability on defense helping the Cougars to get the ball away from the Bearcats.

Some of the best Cougar playing however, came from Jane Sumner who couldn't be stopped. Sumner, who plays an aggressive and fast moving game added up ten points to the Cougar side of the scoreboard and walked off the court at the end of the game sporting a smile. Sumner who has received little playing time this year, proved her worth by playing better than average basketball.

"The game was awfully lopsided, I played a lot of substitutions which is good," said a happy Coach Stark.

Stark also pointed to recent cancellations of games due to weather conditions as a potential problem in Cougar play. "Our defense is really getting stronger every game."

With the State Tournament a little over a month away Stark claims that the team still needs some work. "I'm not really thinking about State yet. I try to play each game one at a time."

Third straight win

Cougars edge UI-CC Chikas

EDWARDSVILLE — For the 500 to 550 die hard basketball fans who braved the arctic conditions Saturday night at the Edwardsville Senior High School gym it wasn't wasted time.

They saw themselves one heck of a basketball game with the host Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Cougars edging out the Chikas of the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle 69-63. The victory ran Coach Jim Dudley's team record to 7-10 and was the Cougars' third straight victory. For Tom Meyer's Circle quintet it made its record 11-10. The night before, the Chikas had walloped the University of Missouri, St. Louis, Rivermen, at the Mark Twain gym, 84 to 77.

UMSL's coach, Chuck Smith, on hand to suit the Cougars, who already have beaten his charges, 66-52, less than two weeks ago, said, "That's one of the best college basketball games I've seen this season. We'll have trouble with SIUE this (Jan. 31) Wednesday night here on the Cougars' court. Young Meyer has Circle playing some great basketball."

The Chikas and Cougars were tied 12 times Saturday, six times in each half. In fact, after trailing by two (33-31) at the half, Circle grabbed the lead, after six minutes into the second half, 41-40. Minutes later, Dudley inserted Lawrence (Low Down) Brown into the SIUE lineup and the high-jumping native of Chicago proceeded to pump in three straight left-handed jump shots to regain the lead for the Cougars for keeps.

With 3:33 remaining on the clock, the Chikas' leading scorer, Joe Hedger hit on a 22-footer to bring Circle within two points, again, 57-59. Again at 2:27 left, Hedger (whose 14 points was high for the visitors) hit another bomb (19 feet), to close the gap to 61-59 SIUE. Then, Jerome (Baby Jay) Nelson, who had entered the battle along with Brown, made the first of two free throws and suddenly the Cougars had a little breathing room, a 63-59 lead.

And, then with just 12 seconds still on the clock, the fans saw a real rarity, Keil Peebles missing a free throw. At the time, Peebles had a streak of 23 straight free throws without a miss and he missed the first of a one-and-one bonus shot.

The score at the time: a comparatively safe 67-63 lead for the Cougars. Tony Johnson of Chicago owns the SIUE free throw consecutive streak record of 26.

Bill Branz, the Cougars' towering 6'9" center from Odell, Ill., led all scorers with 21 points as he hit on eight of 11 from the floor. His 13 rebounds was just one less than SIUE's Bennie Lewis who garnered 14 caroms while scoring 15 points. Peebles, who had one of those rare nights of his from the floor, contributed 18 points as he went seven for 18.

Jim Allen, the Cougars' tall center, pulled down 10 rebounds with most key ones in the first half.

Dudley, still experimenting with his starting lineup, called on Greg Payne, Peebles, Branz, Allen and Lewis. Lewis hit on six of 13 and got down three of four free throws.

In Wednesday's encounter with UMSL, the Cougars will have an opportunity to pull even with the Rivermen since Dudley took over in 1970-71. The Cougars under Dudley trail the Rivermen, 8-9 (14-6 overall).

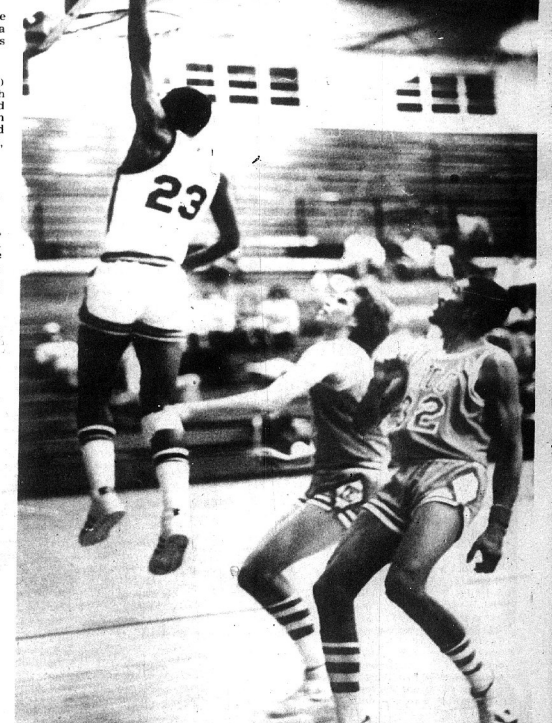

Next Saturday, Feb. 3, the Cougars will return to the win as they travel to Owensboro, Ky., for a game with Kentucky Wesleyan U. Then, the following Tuesday (Feb. 6), SIUE will host the Indiana State U.-Evansville Eagles anxious to avenge a 107-87 defeat there two weeks ago.

Last week's (Wednesday) frozen out game with McKendree College, slated for the Edwardsville High gym, has been rescheduled for Wed., Feb. 28, same site, same time, 7:30 p.m.

Brown feels he owes his favorite sport

By AL BARNES
EDWARDSVILLE — Lawrence Brown, a member of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville varsity basketball squad, feels he has a debt of gratitude for the cage sport.

"My ability to play basketball has enabled me to escape from the South Side of Chicago," said Brown. "Like many other young blacks, I saw early that if I was to have a chance to make it out of the ghetto, basketball and my ability to play the game offered me a chance, at the very least, to gain myself a college education."

Don't get me wrong, I'm not ashamed of having lived in the South Side," said Brown.

"But it's tough to make it out of there without an education."

There are others, too, for whom Brown has a great deal of gratitude.

"Three among many, I want specifically to recognize: My coaches at Harper High, Bobby Ricks and Darryl Backstrom and my coach at Kankakee Community College, Denny Lehnos. All three of them helped me so much I'll never be able to repay them. I just want them to know that I did and still do appreciate all the help they gave me."

The high point in Brown's prep career was in his senior year when the Harper High Cardinals came within inches—four points, in fact—of pulling the biggest upset in Illinois big school (Class AA) prep basketball history as they battled Morgan Park down to the wire in Sectional final before losing, 72-68.

The Morgan High Mustangs then went on to capture the state championship at the Assembly Hall in Champaign.

Teammates on that Harper High team were Melvin Maxwell, a starter now for Western Michigan U., and two others, Neville Brown and Johnny Carson, now starters at Kankakee Community College.

"I'm proud, too, that my teammates at Harper High TV senior year picked me as the squad's Most Valuable Player," Brown said.

Coach Lehnos at Kankakee was simply great—a really great guy. He had the ability to inspire a fellow. My making the all-conference team and being named to the North JUCO All-Star game was mainly the result of Coach Lehnos' encouragement, my freshman year. It was even more valuable to me in my second year when in pre-season drills, I hurt my back and I thought my playing days were over. Coach didn't give up and wouldn't let me. I ended up being picked as all-state and all-conference. Thanks, coach," he said with sincerity.

SIUE Coach Jim Dudley saw Brown playing for the North team in the Illinois annual JUCO All-Star game. "We lost to Lakeland on a last second shot on a layup, you wouldn't believe it, Too Tall," Brown said laughing.

He was referring to Ron (Too Tall) Jones, now Brown's teammate on the SIUE basketball team.

Brown has played in 15 of the Cougars' games. He has been in and out as a starter but feels he is still learning. "I think we can still end up a winner and perhaps, because of our tough schedule, get a post-season tournament bid," he said.

The Schermer Bulletin:

We had some fine response to our non-meal ad last week and are continuing to look for similar items. The weather was a real factor last week. At our Madison Store we have always prided ourselves in that the weather never affects business. Never is a long time and last week broke the record. We missed a number of familiar faces who decided to stay home and "eat out of the freezer." Not a bad idea either.

The forecast for this week is for more snow; but lets hope the worst is over. Last Saturday we set a record for rack-salt sales.

PCB research in Mississippi River

PCB's and Midwest weather have much in common. Both are cussed and discussed at great length, but there is not much that can be done with either.

PCB's represent a family of chemicals known as polychlorinated biphenyls. They are a highly stable, nearly indestructible compound once used in electrical transformers, hydraulic fluids, plastics, paints and a host of other products of a modern society.

High-temperature incineration (2700 degrees F.) is the only approved method for their disposal.

Although they have been manufactured since the 1920s, an accidental discovery in 1966 found the compounds to be widespread in the environment.

The discovery caused a clamor among ecologists and health authorities and speculation about their effects in the food chain, especially in aquatic organisms where toxic levels of PCB's can be found.

Chronic exposure to PCB's can cause serious health effects to animals and man. In 1968, over 1,000 Japanese developed physical abnormalities when exposed accidentally to large doses of PCB's in rice oil.

Their symptoms involved severe acne, eye discharges, darkening of the skin, birth defects, and miscarriages in pregnant women.

PCB's characteristically accumulate in the body fat of animals, including man. And because of their stability, organisms are similar to the contaminant at extremely slow rates.

Production for domestic use of PCB's was finally halted by passage of the Toxic Substance Control Act of 1977.

Equip auto for winter's emergencies

Larry D. Lappin, University of Illinois extension adviser, suggests: prepare a winter survival kit for your car.

His proposals: If you're driving around town, warm clothes and overboots are musts. A bucket of sand and a shovel might help you get out of a parking lot at the end of the day.

Jumper cables, an ice scraper and a flashlight are other cold weather aids to be packed in the survival kit.

When traveling longer distances, being prepared for winter storms is essential.

Before making the trip, add first-aid supplies, extra clothes, a blanket or sleeping bag, tool kit, nylon rope or towing chain, gasoline can, spare tire, tire chains, tire tools and flares to your survival kit.

When packing extra clothes, put in several pairs of mittens and socks. Hands and feet get cold first.

Several layers of clothing will keep you warmer than one heavy layer, as dead air trapped between the layers and among the fibers acts as excellent insulation, Lappin concludes.

The catch is, roughly half (250 million pounds) of all PCB's ever manufactured are still in existence and much of it will be entering the environment for a long time.

Their entry into the environment through the "back door" via leakers from landfills, runoff, accidental spills and other means, has been a concern to the Interior Department's U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS).

Researchers from the agency are attempting to get a better handle on just what happens to PCB's entering the environment, particularly through river systems.

"There is very little known about contaminants in river systems," according to Gary Jackson, a FWS biologist who heads an interdisciplinary team of researchers stationed at the National Fishery Research Laboratory at LaCrosse, Wis.

Previous research has concentrated on freshwater bodies such as the Great Lakes, which act as a catch basin for the byproducts of human society.

The present FWS concern is what happens to PCB's and similar contaminants entering the environment through rivers. In addition, they are trying to see what happens to living organisms that come into contact with the contaminant.

Their strategy is to concentrate their efforts on the Mississippi River and apply the knowledge to other rivers throughout the United States where there are similarities.

PCB levels in the Mississippi River are somewhat high at some locations.

Lake Pepin, 80 miles down river from Minneapolis, receives a stiff dose of contaminants which tend to settle out in the lake.

High water levels during the spring thaw carry much of the sediment and contaminant load to Lake Onalaska, 70 miles farther down river at LaCrosse, where research efforts are concentrated.

"There should be no cause for alarm or panic along the Mississippi River in regard to PCB levels," Jackson assured. "They are there, but not in excessive quantities."

Various fish in the Great Lakes system contain PCB levels in excess of the "five parts per million" health authorities have established as safe to eat.

Certain fish, namely carp, exceed this five ppm base in Lake Pepin. The commercial sale of this fish was banned in the lake, curtailing a localized business.

"I eat most fish out of the Mississippi and don't worry about it," Jackson added.

He is also quick to point out that little is known about the long-term effects of PCB's on human health. But since they are virtually indestructible, they may be insidious than DDT and other well known contaminants.

The FWS study is not a traditional lab-oriented research project. Team members come from many disciplines, and several agencies and organizations are providing input.

The researchers are studying the bottom sediments. They range from clay and silt to sandy material. It is hoped to correlate bottom types and PCB levels with the living organisms found in this type of habitat.

The research pays particular attention to fingernail clams and the mayfly, which act as indicator species because they are common, widespread and act as carriers for contaminants found in bottom sediments.

Fingernail clams and mayflies are fed upon heavily by other wildlife species. Fish are fond of mayflies and waterfowl, particularly sculpin dine on the tiny clam.

Various wildlife species are affected by PCB's and other contaminants due to prolonged exposure to these materials in their food.

"The natural health and reproductive efficiency of wildlife is decreased," according to Jackson. "We also know the animal's ability to cope with stress is reduced."

"This is particularly true in winter when wildlife is under stress and PCB's concentrate in fatty tissues during hanger periods."

Jackson added that his research is looking at "precursor" information rather than being forced into a reactionary approach following a contaminant alarm.

An organized data base regarding PCB movement in the environment is expected to prove helpful, since cleanup of the material seems impossible because of cost and technical practicality.

"Avoidance of PCB's in the environment and proper disposal of them seem to be the keys," Jackson concludes.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE were the former Miss Mary Jean Minor and C. David Mang. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Minor, 1722 South Main St., Jacksonville.

Mary Jean Minor and David Mang marry

Centenary United Methodist Church in Jacksonville was the scene of the Nov. 4 wedding of Miss Mary Jean Minor, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Minor, 1722 South Main St., Jacksonville, and C. David Mang, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mang, 2630 Edison Ave.

Phillip Richardson and Monsignor Michael Driscoll officiated at the afternoon double-ring ceremony, before an altar decorated with fall flower arrangements.

Music selections played by the church organist included "Wedding Song," "Every Tomorrow," and "Twelfth of Never."

Given in marriage by her father, the former Miss Minor wore a gown of satin organza with a silk Venice lace bodice, and matching lace on the full bishop sleeves. The skirt, with a flounced hemline, fell into a brushed ivory train.

The bride wore a silk Venice lace cap secured to a fingertip veil of matching lace. She carried a bouquet of peach roses with baby's breath.

Honor attendant was Mrs. William Bakka, the bride's sister, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Roger Stewart, sister of the bride, Miss Becky Enrick and Miss Mary Ellen Sudholt.

They were attired in identically-styled, floor-length gowns of peach polyester knit, with matching fitted jackets of sheer chiffon. Each attendant wore large straw picture hats with a peach roses. They carried baskets of fall flowers.

Attending the groom as best man was Ken Kleish, a cousin of the groom. Groomsmen and ushers included Dr. Tim Stout, the groom's brother-in-law, Tim Silvey, the groom's brother-in-law, Kevin Megley, Mike Murgie and Steve Hoffman. The bride's mother, Mrs. Minor, chose a floor-length, ivory gown with a sheer brown Empire bodice with an open neckline. The dress had a floral print capelet covering the bodice.

The mother of the groom, Mrs. Mang, wore a powder blue gown with a V-neckline and Empire bodice. A matching chiffon capelet covered her shoulders.

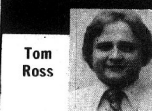

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Church Fellowship hall, and also at the Croatian Home in Madison later in the evening.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Jacksonville High School, and a 1978 graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. She presently is employed as a nurse at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The groom graduated from Granite City High School South in 1974 and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1978. He is employed as an accountant at Ernst and Ernst in St. Louis.

The newly-married couple is residing in Granite City.

Ah, the joys of a crackling fire—

Ah, the cozy warmth of a fireplace with a blazing fire. It isn't all it's cracked up to be.

As the owner of a new family room with a wood-burning fireplace, I have joined the ranks of the "Home Beautiful" magazine families where the father stands beside the fireplace in his smoking jacket and ascot, one foot perched precariously on the hearth with nothing to do but smoke a pipe and watch the flames curl around a beautiful log. WRONG.

A fireplace is a lot of work, I have discovered.

When I bought the fireplace, they didn't tell me wood doesn't grow in trees. I always thought it did.

Wood, I now discover, comes on pickup trucks with a price tag ranging from $30 to $80 hanging from the back of the truck.

Oh, there is plenty of wood around. My front yard is full of it from the New Year's ice storm which felled most of my trees and those of my neighbors. However, there are some hitches.

First, it has to be cut up, which is a cold and time-consuming process, and second, it won't burn.

During the fall, when it was nice to be outside, I bought an electric chain saw and went to work on all my trees, cutting off all the branches and limbs I could reach.

Having cut them into suitable sizes for the fireplace, I thought I was set for a nice, cozy winter in front of the fire they would produce.

Imagine my surprise when I tried to light my first fire, only to find they wouldn't burn. Since then, I have discovered wood requires from six months to a year to season properly for a fire.

Alas, despite all my preparations for a carefree winter with plenty of wood to side me over, I found myself searching for a supply of firewood.

Seasoned firewood is not easy to find. I called everyone selling firewood in the classified advertising and discovered that others with fireplaces already had burned most of the "good stuff."

Finally, I found a supplier who delivered a load of good,

Not wanting the same fate to befall my precious new wood, I left it in the carport and resigned myself to scraping the ice and snow off my car's windows, like everyone else.

I found it only a minor inconvenience putting on my coat and going outside for a ground. After digging through the snow to find it, I couldn't get it loose, even with a sledge hammer (literally).

Ah, but what about all that fallen wood covering the front yard? I grabbed my electric chain saw and headed for the front door.

It's not that easy

dry wood and filled my carport to where only the front end of my car would fit under the cover.

A carport is of little use when snow and ice can reach all of your car from the windshield to the rear. However, the hood ornament has been kept dry all winter.

I started to move the wood one log at a time, to the rear yard, but then discovered the wood I had placed there during the fall was frozen to the ground.

handful of logs every evening, and really wouldn't have minded it, if one armful of logs a night was enough.

I soon discovered a fireplace will consume seasoned firewood like a lion consumes raw meat. Clever me, I figured I would get fires started with that good dry wood and then throw on a few of the wet logs I cut this fall.

It was a good plan, but I forgot that all of the wet firewood was frozen to the

Fortunately, I noticed the little warning label on the chain saw in time: "Do not use while standing on wet ground."

Needless to say, the electric chain saw is now in mothballs until summer, when the ground is dry, once again.

I am now on my third truckload of wood this winter and my supplier just notified me he has no more. He has asked me to search for a new supplier until wood he cut this fall has time to season.

Remembering how difficult it was to find any wood with seasoned wood, and considering how many new fireplaces have been installed in the Quad-City area since then, I shudder at the thought of finding a new supplier.

As a partial solution, I purchased a paper roller which rolls newspapers into logs. In my business, I can get lots of scrap newspapers. Armed laden with papers, I headed merrily home to make my own logs. To heck Until then, I probably will burn a lot of manufactured logs made from wax and sawdust which cost about $1.25 each and which burn only a few hours. And I thought I was going to save on my heating bills by putting in a fireplace!

Necessary to apply promptly for retirement benefits if under 65

People under 65 who want reduced Social Security retirement benefits should keep a close eye on the calendar, Kenna Slusher, Social Security acting district manager in East St. Louis, comments.

"I used to be that a person applying for retirement checks after age 62 could have benefits paid retroactively for up to 12 months," she said.

"But that was changed by the 1977 Social Security Amendments. Now, except in a few specified instances, retroactive payments can be paid only to those retiring after age 65.

"A worker under 65 should apply no later than the month he or she wants benefits to start to be sure of receiving all potential benefits.

"A person applying later could miss out on one or more months of benefits.

"Also, widows and widowers 60 to 65 who wish to receive survivors benefits should apply for benefits in the month of the worker's death. Otherwise, one or more months' benefits could be lost.

"For more information about applying for benefits, contact the East St. Louis office. The people there will be glad to answer your questions about Social Security.

"Offices are located at 650 Missouri Ave., East St. Louis, and 218 West Main St., Belleville, and the telephone number is 274-4100 or toll-free Enterprise 1-555."

Young Sr., Richard Link, James A. Boda, Edward J. Settlemyer, Charles E. Gilmore Sr., Mrs. Patricia Azari and Mrs. Denise Schmitz.

Snow no blessing to many school personnel

School snow days and school closing do not mean a holiday for all employees of the Board of Education, school officials in Granite City noted Friday.

Custodians take advantage of no-teacher, no-student days to shovel walks and to do extra cleaning that cannot be done during regular session days.

Maintenance staffs must do painting and sanding of the entrances and parking lots as well as shoveling where necessary.

All administrators, principals and 12-month secretaries must report to their offices and conduct regular programmed duties on "snow days."

Principals are needed to be on hand at their respective schools to see that their buildings are in readiness for the reopening.

They check that no leaks or other snow damage will inhibit the reopening, and that all such damage is immediately reported to the maintenance director at the board office so that repair teams can be assigned.

Also, they are in their offices to conduct the regular routine of daily business, a spokesman related.

District-wide school administrators also point out that summer and fall are a season of non-activity for them even though the school term has been completed. Their warm-weather chores include budgeting, tax levy preparation, school renovations and the ordering and storing of supplies and equipment.

PAPER LOGS DON'T BURN RIGHT. One of the frustrations of being the proud owner of a new fireplace is that it is difficult to find wood which will burn properly. Paper logs smolder and smoke, unless they are saturated with water and put outside for five days to dry, according to directions on the log roller. Unfortunately, in this weather, they do not dry outside. They freeze.

Some homeowners overlooking tax assessment relief program

Rep. Everett G. Steele, (R) Glen Carbon, notes that numerous inquiries to his office indicate many homeowners are unaware of or uncertain, in regard to the new $1,500 tax assessment relief program now available to all homeowners. Rep. Steele emphasized, "The $1,500 tax exemption on any new tax assessment increase applies to all single family homeowners who apply, not just to senior citizens or certain income groups."

"Since most homeowners in Madison County will have some tax increase this year on their home, practically all who apply will benefit. Applications can be obtained from the local assessor's office, and must be filed before Feb. 15."

"The purpose behind the new legislation," Steele said, "is to provide an inflation guard to homeowners against the skyrocketing values of homes, which have increased at a much more rapid pace than other parts of our economy."

"While the inflation rate of recent years has been around nine percent for most commodities, real estate values have increased at 15 percent or more each year, during the past several years."

"Because of this, property taxes would escalate at a much faster rate than necessary to meet rising costs of government, unless some tax relief as that now available were given."

"I urge all homeowners to take advantage of this new legislation," Steele said.

Officers installed

Officers for the year 1979 of Explorer Post 10-4 were installed last week at the Madison Police Department.

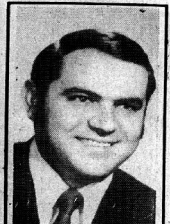

The new officers are: Keith Sanders, president; Jason Kieffer, first vice-president; Mike Schaffner, second vice-president; Joseph Anselmo, secretary; and John Bargiel, treasurer. Installing officers were Madison Police Sgt. William Papa, president of Madison Police Unit 110, sponsors of Post 10-4; Ed Ray Dubish, president of the Madison Board of Police Commissioners and Madison

Chief of Police Donald L. Bridick.

Elections also were held for squad leaders.

Those elected and their respective squads are: Ronnie Grzywacz squad two and senior squad leader; John Lake, squad one, and Lonnie Smith, squad three. The law enforcement Explorer Post meets at 7:30 p.m. the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at the Madison Police station.

Parents, board confer on Venice allegations

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Unsigned leaflets circulated to certain homes in Venice — alleging excessive corporal punishment and other problems in the schools — plus a televised interview with a Venice resident apparently failed to bring out many complaints to a parents' meeting Thursday night.

The open session followed a regular meeting of the Venice Board of Education, conducted in the board office from 7 to 8:10.

After its meeting, the board adjourned to the high school library to meet with the parents. About 40 people were in the library.

Three-fourths of those present were members of the Venice school staff or supporters of the district administrators who had heard about the accusations contained in the leaflet.

Board Secretary Wilbert Glasper presided in the absence of Jack Tolliver, president, who was out of town.

To accommodate everyone who wished to speak, Glasper asked each faction to allow three people to address the board within a given time period.

Glasper explained the board members had heard rumors that a group of parents had circulated leaflets, containing vague accusations, and wanted to meet with the board.

He said the meeting was arranged as a courtesy to the parents' group, since a formal meeting had not been requested, nor had the group asked for its complaints to be placed on the agenda and discussed in the regular course of business.

Glasper said none of the school board members had received a copy of the leaflet being circulated, nor had any member of the Venice school staff.

A person who had been mailed the leaflet by mistake brought it to the board's attention, he said.

Twice Glasper asked for comments about the leaflet and the accusations it contained.

No one spoke.

A woman said there was a man in the audience who she had seen making comments on television.

The man, who has three children in Venice schools, confirmed that two of the items specified in the leaflet concerned his children.

He said the children had told him the events had occurred, involving allegedly excessive punishment, and that he believed them until facts were proven otherwise.

He was asked why the leaflets were distributed by hand, while others were mailed. No one answered.

"Everything was written in a vague manner," it was related.

In response to the comments of the father of three, the Rev. John Ratcliff, pastor of the Venice Methodist Church, came to the defense of the Venice faculty.

He experienced some problems with his children in school, the minister said, but he talked with a principal and the teachers, and a problem was resolved.

Rev. Ratcliff said he had requested there be no corporal punishment for his youngsters. He praised Venice administrators, calling them "excellent."

Several others at the meeting spoke in defense of the faculty.

It was learned a parents' meeting had been called on the night before the board meeting, but for some reason the Venice Recreation Center was not made available.

The meeting with the parents concluded at 8:50 p.m. Thursday.

Five minutes later, three or four other families came into the school library.

One of the families there was concerned with another matter at issue with a school administrator, concerning a child who had been tested by a Special Education Region One psychologist. He praised, showed the child able to attend regular classes, rather than being placed in the special education program.

A lack of communication appeared to be the cause of the misunderstanding on the night before the board meeting, but for some reason the Venice Recreation Center was not made available.

Other questions during the meeting raised the point of who had contacted a television station requesting coverage.

No one admitted responsibility.

Finally, a man in the audience said, "I know who called. The person that called is here. He is sitting at the head table."

School board members were seated at a long table in front of the audience.

The man called a school board member by name, telling him to stand up, but the man denied he had sought TV coverage.

Supt. Vickers said afterward he believed the leaflets and charges probably are based on politics and racism outside the school system.

The salaries of the superintendent and two principals have been called too high by a board member at an earlier meeting.

Although names were not used in the leaflet, Mrs. Anna McKinney, principal of the Venice Grade School, was said to be a possible target of allegations.

"Mrs. McKinney is a fine administrator and she does demand discipline," Supt. Vickers said.

"She has a paddle, but she seldom uses it. She carries it around and occasionally has a table with it when trying to get some attention in the cafeteria."

"She gets their attention," he said, adding that the principal is not against corporal punishment when it is necessary.

In the regular business meeting, the board requested the Illinois Office of Education make an "in-depth" financial study of the district.

The board also hired Steven Neeley, a sixth grade teacher, who has been working in the Venice schools as a substitute teacher since the loss of Title VII.

It cancelled a regular board meeting on Feb. 8, leaving Feb. 22 as the only meeting date next month.

A special meeting is planned at 7 p.m. today to discuss options to the board to meet financial needs.

GC schools to consider cost-cutting proposals

The Granite City Board of Education will meet in special session at 7:30 tonight in the board offices, 20th and Adams streets, to consider ways to bring the operating expenses of the district in line with anticipated revenue.

A wide range of suggestions is to be studied, but administrators indicated much of the meeting is likely to be held in executive session, with the public excluded, since discussions of personnel will be included in the topics.

Joseph Fedora, the district's administrative assistant for physical education and athletics, has presented the board with a wide range of possible cuts in athletic programs for consideration.

A careful look at the athletic program will be only one of the areas in which the board will seek reduced expenditures, administrators indicated.

Other areas to be explored include better utilization buildings and staff, the possibility of a bond issue for major building repairs and needed additions, con-

There will be time for questions from the audience.
